Design sponge paris city guide

New York City San Francisco Los Angeles London Paris Copenhagen Stockholm Sydney Skip to main content Paris by Design is the definitive Book of Paris for the designer and curious creative traveler Francofilo. With a combination of interviews, profiles, essays, tips and lists, author and designer Eva Jorgensen explores why Paris has such a magnetic shot for artists and design lovers, introducing us to some of the city's most charming residents and frequent visitors. Jorgensen has quarrelled with an eclectic and exciting group of collaborators, creatives based in Paris and abroad, who offer travel advice and insights on the scenes of fashion, design, crafts and art in Paris. Recommending more than 450 places to visit, shop, stay, eat, and drink, this richly illustrated book is both a source of inspiration to satiate the design-centric wandering cravings and a practical guide filled with places creatives will have to visit when they make a trip. © 1996-2015, Amazon.com, Inc. For Jonathan Randall Grant, who describes a typical day of his life. As the founder of Culture Keeper, an online publication that celebrates style, adventure, and society, Jonathan is always on the hunt for talented people to share their stories , including photographers, designers, filmmakers, historians, and anthropologists. Whether it's exploring a new museum, sharing a unique perspective of Paris from the eyes of a local, or presenting links to clean products, Jonathan is passionate about curating a quality life. Today he takes us on a one-day virtual tour spent in Paris, divided into his favorite places, places where great kids go, and extras to try in every category, from brunch spots to where to grab a drink after a long day. –Sabrina Photography by Nicodem Creative BRUNCH, PLEASE WHERE I GO TREIZE BAKERY could be the most welcoming place in St. Germain. When you make your way through the courtyard outside the rue des Saints Peres, the owner kindly greets you and offers fresh cookies (those are rare in Paris). He'll probably chat with you for a while, and then lie down to help his staff make you a mind-blowing meal. WHERE FRESH KIDS GO HOLY BELLY serves great food with Brooklyn vibes. This brunch spot is all the time. It is located near the canal, the perfect location for a post-brunch walk. TRY ALSO Lately, I have been to SEASON several times a week, most often to read in the afternoon with a cup of coffee. It's beautiful and well lit. The staff are lovely and everything I ate there was great. They have a fantastic Acai bowl and it's a great place to mingle with a stylish crowd. WALK WHERE I GO Paris is full of hidden gardens and hideouts. JARDIN DU MUSEE RODIN is one of my favorites, because it's and hidden, while maintaining a sense of grandeur. This garden is perfect for walks, and games of hide-and-seek. Rodin's sculptures are scattered throughout, so you can get a close-up view of his work. I like to imagine what it was like when Rodin lived there with other artists like Isadora Duncan. At that time, the garden was covered with Roman plants and antiquities. WHERE COOL KIDS GO JARDIN DU PALAIS ROYAL is hidden by the hustle and bustle of Paris, but only a block from the Louvre. Unlike the main gardens, this one has a soft and easy atmosphere. Its elegant atmosphere (and Kitsune coffee) made it a hit with the Fashion Week crowd. You can also browse the games room of small shops filled with vintage couture along with acne and Stella McCartney outposts. TRY ALSO PARC DE LA VILLETE is a complete universe to explore. The large canals and meadows are crossed by modernist bridges and playgrounds. You can stroll through fantastic architecture and through miniature forests. Go on a sunny day and bring a picnic. This is modern Paris. SEE SOME ART WHERE I GO THE PALAIS DE TOKYO is my favorite museum in Paris. It's typically full of mind and heart-altering exhibits. The Palais presents contemporary installations from all over the world. They also have a great restaurant/café/bookstore/club. I try to go once or twice a month. WHERE COOL KIDS FONDATION RICARD GO is where every incoming artist wants to be seen or exhibited. It's the right place right now. If you're in Paris for one of their openings, you'll be treated to a mix of the coolest people in Paris. Of course, you should get a Ricard (traditional Parisian drink) in the small but gorgeous bar. ALSO TRY not to neglect the classics. THE LOUVRE may be on everyone's list, but it's worth it. No one is too good for the Louvre. I recommend some alternatives to the main tourist obsessions... Learn about J.L. David's work, also Rubens' De Medici series and sculpture courtyards. Even if you only spend an hour or two, no visit to Paris is complete without a visit to its epicenter. GET A CUP WHERE I GO LE PELOTON is the latest Paris establishment in the realm of new-wave coffee. The centrality of its location, along with the perfection of each drink means that they are there at least once a week. I also recommend pecan cake. I could continue all day on all the new cafes popping up in Paris, but this is my current bee. Friendly, lovely, simple... The atmosphere is unpretentious, and they have WIFI, so double win. WHERE COOL FRAGMENTS KIDS GO is probably the coolest coffee shop in Paris at the moment. Drinks are more expensive than most cafes, but the atmosphere, service, and overall vibe are cozy and warm. It is hidden by the hustle and bustle of the city, and they also make fruit juices. TRY ALSO KB Cafe is off the normal tourist track and Rue des Martyrs is rapidly becoming one of the trendiest streets in Paris. A.P.C and Kitsune have just opened shops nearby, so you know the area is hot. I keep going back for a of their roast brazil. KB is always busy with a stylish crowd. BUY SOME WHERE I GO OFR is a magical set of shops near Temple. Their selection of magazines is unparalleled. Piles and piles of magazines and art books await your perusal. They also sell old editions, small art prints and treasures and sell vegetables in front on weekdays. OFR recently separated the library from the gallery, but they are only a block away from each other. (While you're there, stop at Paris' most charming vintage shop at 6pm, rue Perrée.) WHERE THE COOL KIDS GO MERCI is part concept store, part department store, a paradise for everything simple and well cared for. They have some cafes, the best sheets in Paris and all the little items for your home that you didn't know you needed. (If you can't find it here, try the BHV.) ALSO TRY to pop in from KILO SHOP once a week to see what's new in this huge store. Prices are by weight, and while it's not the cheapest vintage clothing in the world, the location near the BHV has become the gateway to Paris. Perfect if you are looking for a scarf, an old fur coat, a trench coat or a worker's jacket. LATE LUNCH WHERE I GO CANDELARIA has the best tacos in Paris, with a fantastic cave-like bar right behind. Don't miss this place. Check out OB-LA-DI next door, if you're looking for coffee later. WHERE COOL KIDS GO If you're looking for an ultra cool food meal and comfortable atmosphere, THEN NANASHI is the place to be. It is perfect for reading in the late afternoon with a cup of tea. They have amazing bento boxes and a vegetable-fed menu. There are plenty of seating, which also makes it a great location for larger groups. (Also, vegan-friendly Pinson is right across the street.) TRY ALSO I put some quirks on this list, and CHEZ LOUISETTE is one of them. Imagine someone decorated their basement for Christmas in 1948, and then left the Christmas decorations. Now imagine inviting their grandparents to perform classic Aznavour and Piaf songs every Saturday. This is this place. Their food is classic and cheap. It is located in the Paris flea market, so many of the regulars are antique dealers. Chez Louissette is an amazing and quirky experience that I love. BUY A LITTLE MORE WHERE I GO PUCES ST. OUEN is an endless labyrinth of antiques and curiosities. When you get out of the subway, you have to make your way through the crowds and belts of fake hermes vendors to get to the good things, but the trip is worth it. The Paris Flea Market opens up a beautiful world of hidden alleyways and small shops filled with treasures. Go Saturday morning. Bring cash. WHERE COOL KIDS COS GO is the only brand that all my friends in the fashion world agree on. Bold pieces and in soft colors. Chic, with a beatnik, spatial touch. Prices are comparable to GAP. Now there are resorts scattered throughout Paris, but those on Rue Montmartre and Rue de Rosiers are the best. ALSO TRY DEYROLLE, the real taxidermist, it's another favorite stop of mine. Head upstairs and check out tigers and llamas and insect cases. They don't allow photography, but this place is full of inspiration. (For a more intense experience with gagged animals, check out the magnificent Musee de la Chase et de la Nature.) REST WHERE I GO ST. THOMAS AQUIN It is a nice place to rest, pray and hide from time. You will rarely see another tourist in this church. Normally the only other person around is a sweet old lady who will explain the story to you. It's just off the intersection of Blvd. St. Germain/Rue du Bac, so it's central, but tucked away from view. The style of the church is crunchy and simple, but retains a strong elegance. It is one of the quietest places in the city. WHERE COOL KIDS GO COMPTOIR GENERAL is a kind of fantasy world. You enter an alley in a garden, and what looks like a long corridor of a 1960s hotel in some sub-Saharan capitol. At night the bar is full of a fun crowd, mingling and dancing. During the day, this place has a relaxed atmosphere. Be sure to check ahead as they are often closed for events. If you go after 9pm, you may have to wait in a long line. TRY SEYMOUR+ is also the coolest new experience in Paris. It's a quiet, technology-free area. For 7 euros you can explore various quiet and well-designed rooms. In each there is a writing prompt, or a comfortable chair, and some tactile objects. I had a quiet afternoon in Seymour+ last week, and I'm dying to come back. There is something sensual and sacred about it. GRAB A DRINK WHERE I GO When I need to meet friends for a drink on the right shore, VOLTIGEUR is my access point. Not too fresh, not too traditional, it's the perfect mix of both. The prices are reasonable and the people watching is great. I think it's one of the most underrated places in the Marais. WHERE COOL KIDS GO LE MARY CELESTE has wonderful cocktails, chic atmosphere and a generally cool atmosphere. I'm not a cocktail connoisseur, but this place always amazes me. TRY BAR DU MARCHE is also a very classic Parisian establishment. This bar was a cornerstone of beatnik Paris in the 1950s. Waiters are always fun and flirtatious, and everyone wears caps and overalls (salopettes, in French). Du Marche doesn't try too hard. They have good music and a terrace which is a great place to see and be seen. DINNER, YO WHERE I GO When I say CAFE DE L'INDUSTRIE is my favorite coffee, I actually want to say that it's really the ONLY coffee I come back to regularly. The décor and vibes at this place make me feel at home with Turkish carpets, old paintings, palm trees and a lived patina. There are locations on both sides of the road, but GO TO THAT TRAT me. Industry serves cheap and traditional food. WHERE COOL KIDS GO Everyone seems obsessed with LES CHOUETTES since its renovation. On rainy afternoons, the upstairs balcony is a discreet place to meet for a drink read a book, and the atmosphere is chic. It is located near the epicenter of the Parisian cool: the Carre Du Temple / Quartier des Enfants Rouge. TRY TOKYO EAT is also stylish and trendy. It is open late and is connected to the Palais du Tokyo. They serve a wide range of dishes from all over the world. It has an incredible mid-century vibe. The adjacent café and bookcase are also stellar. I am obsessed with their orange trays and always fascinated by their talkative waiters. TAKE THE SHOW WHERE I GO THE FLECHE D'OR is a music venue turned subway station. For the past eight years, this has been my regular place, where they've seen some amazing performances of all kinds. It's big enough to get acts like Cat Power and The Bahamas, but small enough not to part with your friends. WHERE COOL KIDS GO LE BATEAU is a nice place to listen to good music. I've seen some small rock shows, and a fair amount of Canadian popular performances. Upstairs, you'll find their restaurant and bar, so go ahead and arrive early for a burger and fries (the French are currently obsessed with burgers, so ironically, this is perhaps the French thing you could order). TRY IT TOO If you want to see a movie in Paris, you have hundreds of options. I highly recommend supporting the many small cinemas of the 5th and 6th arr. They are small treasures and are part of what makes Paris so special. For an extra-special experience, you can see a contemporary movie at LA PAGODE (near Bon Marche). Built in 1896, it has a Japanese garden in front and an environment you won't find anywhere else. Other.
